Alumni Award Nominations due November 1

Honoring the achievements and service of members of the Pirate Nation is extremely important to the East Carolina Alumni Association. The most visible way we honor our alumni is twice a year at our spring and fall Alumni Awards Ceremonies. The success of this program and the caliber of our award recipients hinge on the letters and nominations that individuals like you submit recommending ECU Pirates and supporters for our awards. Nominations are accepted year-round, but are due by November 1, 2006 to be considered as a 2007 award recipient. To learn more about the awards offered, past recipients, and how you can nominate someone for the Outstanding Alumni, Honorary Alumni, and Distinguished Service Awards, please click here.

A Look Back

Campus Architecture

Main gates in front of Old Austin from 1931 yearbook

One of the things that ECU is known for is its architectural style. The original buildings were designed according to the instructions of Thomas Jarvis who had served as ambassador in Brazil and liked the red brick facades and tile roofs he saw there. Another architectural detail found around campus is the gates along 5th Street.

The first was designed by the original campus architects Hook & Rodgers and was to be placed in front of Old Austin. The gate was not built until about 1930. It first appears in photographs in 1931 and it would eventually be used to memorialize Kate Lewis, art teacher and Ola Ross, registrar. The second to be built was the Beckwith Gate which stands in front of Spilman. This gate was a gift of the alumni in honor of the first Lady Principal Kate Beckwith, who served from 1909-1925. #### Liberty Mutual Coach of the Year

One college football coach in the U.S. will be crowned the inaugural Liberty Mutual Coach of the Year on December 16, and your Pirate pride can help Coach Skip Holtz rise above the rest.

The Liberty Mutual Coach of the Year is awarded to the college football coach who most embodies the characteristics of responsibility and excellence on and off the field. Visit www.coachoftheyear.com between September 8 and November 5 to vote for Coach Holtz and be sure to share your thoughts on why he's the most responsible coach in America.

Your vote also could win you a trip for 4 to the 2007 Rose Bowl in Pasadena, California!

"College football coaches are tremendous role models to their student-athletes, undergraduates and alumni, and their on- and off-campus communities at-large," said Tony Rotondi, Liberty Mutual's alumni affinity marketing manager. "We're looking for college football fans to help us find the one coach that best represents their college or university through unparalleled responsibility, integrity and excellence."

And fans input counts: your vote will help determine if Coach Holtz is among the 10 finalists announced in November. Then, be sure to tune-in to ABC on December 9 to watch the finalist selection show, and again on December 16 to see who's tabbed as the Liberty Mutual Coach of the Year.

Alumni Tailgate in Orlando

The East Carolina Pirate football team is storming Orlando! Join the East Carolina Alumni Association and the Pirate Club on the road for an old fashioned ECU tailgate party followed by our win against UCF. The Tailgate will take place in Orlando, Florida, just inside Tinker Field (located in the Florida Citrus Bowl) along the 1st base line on Saturday, November 4 from 1:30-3:30 p.m. Cost is $20.00 for adults (children 10 and under are free) and includes burgers and dogs with all the sides and plenty of Pirate beverages courtesy of ARAMARK! Please RSVP with payment to the East Carolina Alumni Association by 12:00 noon on Wednesday, November 1. To make your Tailgate reservations, click here or call 800-ECU-GRAD.

title is a bit misleading; she was in reality the dean of students. "Not only was she charged with guarding their morals and well-being, she was also expected to imbue them with the social graces and maidenly decorum appropriate for a Southern lady in the role of a professional woman."

Over time five additional gates and a matching boundary marker would be constructed matching the first. They were built to honor early members of the faculty: Ann Redwine and Elisabeth Hyman, Education, Mittie Beaman infirmary supervisor and Sallie Joyner Davis, History. The gate built in honor of Sallie Joyner Davis served as the entrance to the Arboretum named for her. The gate was situated at the east end of Graham and was taken down in the early 1990's. The most recent addition to the group is the entrance of campus at 5th & Reade Streets which has East Carolina University carved into the stone.

CHICAGO! October 5-10

The curtain will rise on October 5 for the Loessin Playhouse season's opening show – Chicago!

Chicago in the 1920s is home to Al Capone and two previously unknown Vaudeville starlets, Velma and Roxie. Velma has been in jail and grabbing the headlines for killing her husband and sister. When Roxie is arrested for killing her lover who walked out on her, she begins stealing the spotlight from Velma. Now, both are competing for the press and their mutual lawyer, Billy Flynn. Not to be outdone, Roxie manages to capture the media back when her trial begins. Add to this a great cast of characters, many of whom are based on the actual trial and tributes to Vaudeville headliners of the day, and a dazzling score, and you have Chicago and "All That Jazz."

The next production will be Hedda Gabler, November 16-21. For more information on this year's productions, and ticket information, click here or call 800-ECU-ARTS.

Will MacKenzie, Greenville native and East Carolina alumnus '98, '05 won the Reno-Tahoe Open golf tournament at the end of August in Reno, Nevada. This win marks MacKenzie's first PGA tournament victory. MacKenzie played golf in Greenville growing up, however he left the game for awhile before returning to it in 1999 and turning pro in 2000. With this win he is elevated in the Tour's money list and will have a two-year exemption so he can focus on his game instead of staying on the tour.
